AT DICKER HALL

Besides Regular Officials, Seniors Elect Annual Class Day Officers; Juniors Name Two Student Council Members

CHOOSE ANNUAL STAFF

On last Thursday and Friday the regular class elections were held at Dicker Hall. There were only two officers to be elected by the freshmen and sophomore classes, secretary and treasurer, as the president and vice-president had been chosen the week before. However, the other two classes had to elect others: the juniors had to choose two student council members because the two elected last year failed to return to school for this term; and the seniors had to choose their annual class day officers.

Senior Class

Officers elected at the senior class meeting held last Friday were: Robert Spicer, treasurer; Mary Murray Harbison, secretary; William Arch Bennett, prophet; Evelyn Wright, historian; Virginia Boyd, poet; Lillian Howes, gaffian; Albert Kittinger, permanent secretary; I. Planck, auditor; Henry Clay Turner, grumbler; and W. H. Hanratty, orator.

Robert Spicer, who is a Lexington boy, is enrolled in the College of Engineering. Mary Margaret Harbison, who was elected secretary, is from Shelbyville, is in the College of Education, and is a member of Chi Omega fraternity. Dr. and Mrs. McVey
Return From West

President Declares for More Extensive Building Program on Campus

Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey, returned Tuesday from an extended trip throughout the western portion of the United States during which Dr. McVey made addresses at five state universities.

"Many of the institutions that I visited had finer buildings than the University of Kentucky campus but the local campus itself was superior to most of them," Dr. McVey said. The president also declared that he was more than delighted with the state of Kentucky after his long trip during which he inspected ten universities and colleges.

Dr. McVey declared that the University of Kentucky must soon inaugurate an extensive building program, because the old buildings are getting beyond repair and new ones must be had to take care of the ever-increasing enrollment of the institution.

U. K. BAND HAS
NEW UNIFORMS

Musicians Appear in "Snappy" Blue Garb for First Time at V.P.I. Game; Parade in Rain

STANDARD A. F. M. STYLE

When the University Band paraded in the rain and mud on Stoll field Saturday at the V.P.I. game, they appeared in regular band uniform for the first time in history. The band last year earned for itself the name of the "Best Band in Dixie." This year students believe it will hold that name and will in addition present as good an appearance as any band in the country.

There are 56 uniforms in all of the standard American Federation of Music style of dark blue cloth trimmed with dark blue braid. There are metal U. of K.'s at the sides of the collars. Dark blue capes with white satin linings, which are folded back when the men parade give a "snappy" appearance to the uniform. The drum major's outfit is full West Point style with a high shako of white fur. The members of the band are required to purchase their own uniforms which cost $30, but when a man leaves the band he has the standard A.F.M. uniform which is used all over the country and which he may use in band work elsewhere.

Elmer G. Sulzer, from De Pauw University, is the new band director. He replaces Sergeant John J. Kennedy, who for the past three years was director.

Annual Amateur Night
Set For November 12

Three Best Plays Selected From Tryouts Will Be Presented

Stroller-Amateur night will be held on Friday, November 12, at 7:30 p. m. in the Men's gymnasium. The tryouts will be completed this week and following the annual custom the three best plays selected by the judges will be presented on amateur night, and at that time a list of those eligible for the Stroller play will be read.

Those participants fortunate enough to be chosen on amateur night will be allowed two complimentary tickets for the Stroller play in the spring. This play is to be selected immediately by the officers of the Strollers so that the tryouts may be held a little earlier this year.

The judges of the tryouts this week have announced that a great deal of excellent material will be available this year and that they are well pleased with the dramatic ability of those who have played before them.

Arrival of Beauty Selection Saves
Kentuckian Editor From Gray Hair

Students Make Caustic Comments on Held's Ability as a Connoisseur of Feminine Pulchritude; Kernel Reporter Finds (Editor-in-Chief) Stebbins Contemplating Suicide

By the grace of heaven I am spared the arrival of the thirteenth gray hair! The beauties are here! To the uninitiated that would seem the occasion for a renewed growth of the silver threads (among my red) but they forget that the feature writer is early hardened to the thrusts of adverse criticism. Besides, all my sympathy goes out to the down-trodden editor of that graceless book at whose instigation this yearly verbal massacre is staged.

Is there such a thing as beauty? The editor says she wonders. You can't get her to commit herself. They told her it wasn't polite. The point is, a noted connoisseur of beauty, this year John Held, Jr., cartoonist of College Humor fame—has as usual selected from the group of twenty-five or thirty photographs submitted

Raymond Kirk, alumni secretary, has announced that no formal program or special meetings have been planned as it is believed that many of the former students prefer to spend the day as they choose with old friends, but it is expected that the Kentucky-Centre game in the afternoon, the alumni dance at the gymnasium in the evening, and the numerous college and fraternity reunions, will attract alumni from far and near.

Lexington "Wildcat" Rooters and Firms Send Band to Birmingham

SuKy Circle Heads List With $100 Donation to Fund; Pep Organization Will Send Musicians to Tennessee Unassisted; Five Gifts of $50 Are Received

Tomorrow afternoon when the Wildcats face the mighty and as yet undefeated Crimson Tide, they will struggle all the harder in their efforts to ebb the tide because of the inspiring music of "My Old Kentucky Home" and other songs played by the university band which is accompanying the team on the southern trip through the generosity and cooperation of a number of firms and individuals of Lexington.

Early in the year the SuKy circle voted to send the band to Knoxville Thanksgiving day for the annual game with the Volunteers of Tennessee. Many thought that the band ought to go to Alabama also because of the importance of that game this year. Consequently a committee from the SuKy circle has cooperated with members of the band and sever-

Throughout the entire day they talked in favor of the Park bonds and instructed voters how to vote in order to insure the passage of the measure. Those who worked were: Misses Kathleen Lowry, Harriett McCauley, Nancy Wilson, Elizabeth Woods, at the booth at Maxwell and Harrison; Mary Giles Thorn and Lucile Short, at the booth on Angliana and Broadway; Virginia Conroy, Catherine Carey and Mr. Jimmie Shropshire at the booth on Sixth and Lime; and Misses Saran Walker, Ora Spradling and Jimmie Collins at the Dudley School precinct.

Vaughn and John Skain, prominent Lexington business men, the latter being a former student of the university and the present treasurer of the executive board.

Another prize, offered for the first time on the campus, is being given by the Women's Student Government Association to the most worthy junior girl working her way through college. This award is to be made on the basis of character, scholarship, and service to the university.

Council Turns Down
Petition of Students

Rejects Plan of Holiday or Removal of Penalty After Thanksgiving Game

Students who go to Knoxville for the Thanksgiving game must risk returning to Friday classes on time or else suffer the consequences as the university council declined to declare a holiday on November 26 or to remove the penalty for missing the first class after a holiday as petitioned by the SuKy circle and Men's Student Council.

The special train to the scene of the annual conflict between the University of Kentucky and the University of Tennessee is scheduled to return to Lexington at seven o'clock on the day after Thanksgiving, which will allow the tourists ample time to get to first hour classes. Those making the trip by automobile must allow sufficient time to transverse the mountains. One tenth of one percent will be deducted as usual from the standing for unexcused absences after a holiday.

Kentucky, Due to Past Defeats, Is Keen for Revenge; Team Has Worked Hard for Battle at Birmingham

'BAMA SUPREME IN DIXIE

Crimson Record This Season Is Five Won and None Lost

(By KENNETH GREGORY)

Whether or not a big Blue wall can stem a rushing Crimson tide will be tested out tomorrow afternoon at Richmond park, Birmingham, Ala., when the Wildcats engage in their annual battle with the Alabama grid-iron machine. Last year the Crimson tide flowed rapidly over the weaker Blue but this time a different story is expected.

All eyes of the South will be focused on the Kentucky-Alabama tilt tomorrow and, should the Wildcats emerge victorious, little should stand in their way for the Southern conference honors.

Since a Kentucky eleven dropped them 6 to 0 in 1922, Alabama has continued to emerge victorious. But this year the Blue and White looks the best bet.

Wildcats Practicing Hard. All this week Coach Fred J. Murphy has worked his men hard, scrimmaging them against the Kittens who were equipped with 'Bama plays. The Wildcat team showed up well against the Elks and with such spirit as has prevailed throughout the week at the workouts, the Kentuckians are likely to throw a wrench into the Tuscaloosa machinery. KERNEL TO PRINT
VOCATION ADVICE

Various Professors on Campus Will Contribute Articles for Guidance of Students in Choosing Occupations

SERIES WILL BEGIN SOON

Beginning in a short time The Kernel will publish from time to time articles on vocational guidance, written by various professors on the campus, all of whom are recognized as experts in their respective fields. The Kernel is inaugurating this plan with a view of presenting to the student body the opportunities offered in various lines of life work.

It is with a view to help the students that this plan has been worked out. As each student sees his graduation approach, and is confronted by the question: "What shall I do after I am through?" he realizes all too soon that the fields of occupation before him are overcrowded, or else he has no specialization toward which he should have worked in college. The university has tried to bring before the student body the various phases of occupations open to the trained college student, and numerous experts on vocational guidance have been brought here, some staying here as long as a week in order that students may realize before graduation that to get the most out of their college career, they should select their profession and work toward specialization in that field. It will be impossible to cover all the professions in this series.

EDUCATORS MEET

It recently has been announced that more than 1,000 teachers and educational workers of every branch of the calling will be on the campus of the University of Kentucky two days, November 19 and 20. This is the annual educational conference which has met for several years on the university campus. The conference is held under the auspices of the College of Education, dean of which is Dr. W. S. Taylor, '12. President McVey will preside at the meetings which will be held during the two days.

Numbered among those who have signified their intentions of attending the conference is a large number of graduates and former students of the university, who will be able to be present at the homecoming games as well as attend the conference. The conference will be adjourned early enough to allow all the delegates to see the game between Centre and Kentucky.

The annual educational conference is another means by which the influence of the University of Kentucky, reaching out to every county in the state. By its multitude of services offered to the state at large the university rapidly is reaching that point where its influence is reaching out to those fortunate enough to be on the campus. It has become a state wide institution sending its influence and services out over the entire state. It is a tree of education, whose branches are extending over every county and town, shading Kentucky from the glare of educational backwardness.

THE PRESS AND HOMECOMING

The executive committee of the Kentucky Press Association has announced that a business meeting of the association will be held in Lexington Saturday morning, November 20. The meeting, so the announcement reads will be held in the morning and arrangements have been made for the members to attend the State-Centre football game in a body.

This is another challenge to the Alumni of the university, The men of Press who are closely in touch with the affairs of the state have become interested in the university. They make it a point to be in Lexington on the day of days for Alumni. If these said journalists of the state are interested in the game and homecoming then the Alumni should be doubly so.

They are interested enough in the game that afternoon to begin their meeting in the morning so that all business can be disposed of before the kickoff in the afternoon.

It is going to be a great day in Lexington and on the campus of the University of Kentucky. A day that no Alumni will want to miss. The University of Kentucky, the student body and Lexington will welcome you with open arms. It is your duty. Let's make it the best in the history of homecomings.

It has been said that a thousand Alumni united on important university ideals would be underestimated at one million dollars a year.

There are enough of us to do any thing we ought to do if only we get together and keep trying.

KENTUCKY PAPER PLEASES ALUMNI

Many Letters From Old Grads Loud in Praise of Student Paper Come to Alumni Office

EDITORS CONGRATULATED

The Kentucky Kernel for this year is receiving so much favorable comment from the Alumni of the University of Kentucky that it is no more than fair to those boys and girls in charge of publishing The Kernel to reprint some of the good things that are said about the paper.

A recent letter from Gracean M. Pedley of Owensboro, Ky., is as follows:

"Thanks for the letter. I had an idea that my dues were paid. The Kernel is most excellent from every angle and as a former newspaper worker I should like to congratulate its editors. With best regards for the university. G. M. (Duck) Pedley."

H. H. Grooms, '26, who is with the law firm of Coleman, Coleman, Spain and Stewart, of Birmingham, Alabama writes as follows:

"Please enter my subscription to The Kernel. I trust that you will not find it inconvenient to start my subscription with the week's issue, since I am anxious not to miss a single issue. The initial issue of this year surpasses any single copy of The Kernel that I have ever seen. Congratulations. "H. H. Grooms."

A letter from Charles L. Orman, '25, of North Haven, Connecticut, follows:

"The Kernel has been coming to my door for several days. Indeed it is a welcome visitor. It is so teeming with enthusiasm that we cannot but believe that ours is the richest Alma Mater, richest in that something which calls for filial love.

"I enclose a check for my Alumni dues. Thank you for the pleasure. "Charles L. Orman."

R. C. Mayhall of Louisville, says: "Keep sending The Kernel, I enjoy reading it."

These are only a few of the many similar communications that come in to the Alumni office each week. It is not that we in this office may receive any reflected credit for these letters but that credit may be given where credit due—to those loyal young men and women who give so freely of their time and talents to make the publication of The Kernel possible.

Alexander D. Lewis, '24 Injured in Auto Wreck

Alumnus in Florida Hospital After Crash; Was Enroute to Jacksonville

Alex D. Lewis, who was graduated from the University in 1924 is in a critical condition in a hospital in St. Augustine, Fla., as a result of injuries he received in an automobile accident while enroute from Miami, Fla., to Jacksonville to see the Kentucky-Florida football game Saturday, October 23.

Lewis was with a party of friends from Miami, all former Kentuckians, enroute to Jacksonville. They had driven all the night preceding the game and early Saturday morning the automobile in which they were riding collided with another car. Lewis was the only one hurt more severely than minor cuts and bruises. His injuries consist of severe cuts about the face and it is probable that skin grafting will be necessary.

For two years after being graduated from the University of Kentucky Lewis was employed in Lexington by Gillig and Churchill, architects. At the present he is employed by the C. Weber Contracting Company, which is putting through a new boulevard in Miami. He is in charge of landscaping and designing the parkways and numerous buildings along the new street.

LAWYER PRAISES STUDENT BODY

President of American Bar Association Says University Boys and Girls Most Typical American

DEAN C. J. TURCK LAUDED

President Charles S. Whitman of the American Bar Association and former Governor of New York, who was the principal speaker at the formal opening of the new Law building was loud in his praise of the University of Kentucky, the type of students and the College of Law. At a dinner at the Ashland Golf club in the evening following the dedication services Governor Whitman paid tribute to Dean Charles J. Turck for the work that he had done toward the advancement of the College of Law and also passed into a general commendation of the Lexington bar.

In commenting on the students of the University of Kentucky, Mr. Whitman said, "Never before have I been more impressed with this state than when I looked into the faces of the boys and girls at the University of Kentucky. In no place in the United States have I seen a gathering of persons more typical of American origin. They will be of themselves of the greatest value to the future of this country."

At the dinner which was given by the Lexington Association in honor of President Whitman, were more than 100 barristers from Kentucky. A large number of those present are alumni of the College of Law of the university. Judge Richard C. Stoll, of Lexington, a graduate of the university and a member of the board of trustees of the institution, was toastmaster at the dinner.

Judge Samuel M. Wilson, prominent Lexington attorney, closed the program of speeches by saying that the Lexington Bar Association, with the aid of Dean Turck and Judge Stoll, pledged itself to aid in the development in local circles of the objects of the American Law Association.

TURN THE TIDE!

Last week university students called on Frank Smith and his cohorts to "Wreck Tech." Nor was the call unanswered, for while V. P. I. did manage to escape with a 13-13 tie, the hopes and dreams of the Virginians were greatly bent—if not technically wrecked.

This week the campus echoes to another plea of the student body to the football team, a plea to "Turn The Tide."

Early in the season sport critics prophesied that if Alabama were to be beaten, Kentucky would be the team to do the job. Nor do their predictions seem very wrong for the great Crimson tide has swept over and engulfed all opposition encountered so far this season.

The blue and white clad warriors enter the fray tomorrow with the "dope" all against them. Alabama, leading the Southern Conference race, is reputed to have one of the strongest eleven in the whole country. Kentucky's record is not quite so imposing, having won one, lost one, and tied one game in the Southern Conference race. But there is one thing that "dope" does not take into consideration in its calculations and that is the Kentucky spirit.

University students rely on the fighting, never-say-die spirit that the Wildcats have shown in all their games this year, to throw all obstacles, "dope" and the like into the trash barrel tomorrow, and to turn Alabama's self-conceded victory into a glorious victory for the University of Kentucky.

Today the Blue and White team rests on Alabama soil. With them are members of the band, loyal alumni, and students who were able to make the trip. But greater than all these there is with them the hope and backing of the entire student body.

The Kernel does not claim any clairvoyant powers which would enable it to predict the exact outcome of the game tomorrow. But it does know, as does every student in the institution that the Wildcats will put up a glorious fight tomorrow, win or lose and one that will be a credit to them and to their institution.

And the team will fight all the harder because of the knowledge that with them is every student, in spirit if not in person.

APPRECIATED COOPERATION

Tomorrow when the Wildcats step out on the Alabama gridiron and strive to turn the Crimson tide, they will be spurred on to nobler efforts by the inspiring music of the "best band south of the Mason-Dixon line."

The University R. O. T. C. band is being sent to Birmingham through the kindness and generosity of a number of public-spirited individuals and firms of Lexington who are defraying the costs of the musicians on the southern trip.

On innumerable occasions the student body has had occasion to express its gratitude to these friends and "backers" who have always responded willingly to any call made by the university. Many praise-worthy ventures of the university, such as the building of the basketball building and stadium, have been accomplished largely through the spirit of cooperation and assistance of the same parties who are now sending the band to Alabama.

Elsewhere in this issue is printed a list of names of those whose contributions made it possible for the band to make the Birmingham trip. On behalf of the student body, the SuKy circle and the whole university, The Kernel extends thanks to these persons and assures them of the deep gratitude of the institution.

Especially does The Kernel think praise should be extended to Mr. Wallace Muir and others who on this occasion, as on many others, cooperated with the SuKy circle in raising money for this trip.

SERVICE

Every year the university graduates a goodly number of young men and women who within the period of a few years, become recognized leaders and dynamic forces for civic progress in the various cities and communities in the state in which they make their permanent abode.

In the class of 1926 among other outstanding journalists, was Ted McDowell. In his undergraduate days Ted was one of the most prominent men on the campus and his list of achievements in college reads like a catalogue of extra-curricular activities offered at the university. Since his graduation Ted has been connected in a responsible position with the Harlan Enterprise.

The Kernel notes with a great deal of pleasure the influence that the Enterprise, under McDowell's guidance, is wielding in the mountain section. The Harlan paper consistently boosted the bond issues for the election held last Tuesday and it also performed a notable service for its party in the senatorial race.

It is also gratifying to note the good work being done by other graduates of recent years in journalistic fields. Sterling Towles of the class of 1925 is city editor of the Danville Messenger and Arthur Morris of last year's class is managing-editor of the Corbin Times-Tribune. Towles in Danville and Morris in Corbin possess the same respect and esteem of their townspeople that McDowell does in Harlan, and all are recognized as leaders in civic affairs in their respective communities.

THIS AND THAT

Next to the referee's whistle at the close of a game when the 'Cats are behind, we think that the "mournful-est" sound we have heard for some time is an ambitious cornetist playing "All Alone" on the third floor of a fraternity house.

After "attending" a pep meeting in answer to a summons which some one had posted the week before and failed to remove after the yell fest, we're in favor of making it a penal offense for those who do not take their posters off the bill boards after their purpose has been accomplished.

"NIGGER HEAVEN"

White blood boils and white flesh cringes beneath the searing lash of savage passion and primitive debauchery that writhes through parts of "Nigger Heaven," Carl Van Vechten's vivid penetration of the Afro-New York mysteries. White minds recoil and white eyes glaze with the startling revulsion over its revelations. Few white hearts can be even partially in sympathy with it.

And yet Van Vechten has given us perhaps the most comprehensive, most realistic insight yet attempted into a civilization about which, until recently, we have been blissfully and almost totally unaware.

An exclusive negro society, a negro "fast set" corresponding identically, but for color, with our Long Island fast set, negro intellectuals, geniuses, above all the growing menace of negro "passing"—realities which we whisper about, those of us who are cognizant of them. Van Vechten flings them in our faces.

These negro writers, Countee Cullen who poetizes about his downtrodden brother,

"All day long and all night through,
One thing only must I do:
Quench my pride and cool my blood,
Lest I perish in the flood."

Van Vechten confronts us with them, boldly. The author hypnotizes his audience. "Nigger Heaven" acts like a snake charmer upon the emotions of its readers, fascinating and repelling in turn. We are conscious of distaste, physical revulsion even, yet few will leave the book unfinished.

Van Vechten is obviously well informed. He weaves fabric of ugly dreams for us to contemplate. His treatment of the situation reveals an obvious sympathy for the hopelessness of the conditions his investigation has laid bare. Yet, in his story, he elicits only our pity, perhaps, if we can transcend to revolting depravity and obscenity of his picturization. We are sorry for Mary and Howard, even Dick Sill who "passes," and others like them who struggle hopelessly to win ahead against the prejudice of white power and control. We would reject any solutions Van Vechten suggests, either tolerance of the negro in business or the absorption of the black race into the white.

Van Vechten adds but another number to the list of sins that have lately been committed in the name of "realism." Of all his books, "Nigger Heaven" has a more evident theme than any other, but his motive, if it was to perpetrate more atrocities of ugliness, is fully realized. If any good was intended it has lost itself in the filth and hideousness of the materials he employs. The opening chapter of the book, which tells the story of the Eastman, and the scene at the Black Mass with Lasca and Byron are revolting in the extreme.

It is true that Van Vechten's style depends much upon his power of suggestion, but even that suggestion is self-evident and obviously intended to be understood. "Nigger Heaven," granting its authenticity, is life. It is realism. As a novel it lacks what all our modern novels lack; namely, the power to express beauty, even in ugliness. As realistic fiction it may be great and powerful, but it is certainly an unlovely piece of work. —Dorothy Stebbins.

RELIGIOUS DISCUSSION

The Sunday School lesson for November 7 is discussed by Rev. T. L. Settle, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Lexington.

Three Lessons

We are studying this fall the exodus of the children of Israel from the bondage of Egypt to the freedom of the Promised Land. The question has been raised as to the value of this study at this time. Does it have a real bearing on modern experience and living? The answer is that, at present, it is a vital part of present reality. They are to a marked extent the causes of present reactions. Human nature has made little changes in its constituents and reactions in the thousands of years that have passed since the event we are studying happened. We can easily discover in ourselves the same weaknesses and strengths, working in the same way and producing the same results, as are revealed in our story. Space prohibits a full analysis of their procedures, but there are three things outstanding—three lessons it would be well for us to grasp if we would live fully:

First, the inborn desire for freedom in every human heart. This springs from the consciousness in the individual of his individuality. He is and has the right to be captain of his own destiny. There is a real slavery of the soul and mind as well as of the body. Chains forged by human hand may hold the body fast and yet a man may be free. It was freedom in this sense that kept Israel alive and hopeful in all the bondage of Egypt. With their bodies they toiled under the lash of the taskmaster; with their souls they lived in the glory of the past and the hope of the future. So we, bound with the chains of material necessity, may with our souls soar in the ethereal blue of freedom and dream great dreams of the Kingdom of God in whose making and bringing to pass we have been a part. Why bind ourselves with the chains of sin when freedom comes with its mastery?

Second, the power of habit in life. Habit is a God-given gift to man which makes for stability—that keeps the good man good, the bad man bad. All life is a battle and habits are the weapons of offense and defense we forge to aid us in the fight. Habits are self-made, but once made they are almost invincible. If you study the story of Exodus you will discover the power of habit. For generations the Children of Israel had known in Egypt gods made with human hands. So when the shadows of doubt fell, habit captured the rein and the great ideal of a god not made by hands faded. What kind of habits are we ourselves forming? The first false step is the hardest, each repetition becomes easier until control passes from us and we are slaves in

Exhibition Is Being Held in Art Building

Works of Daniel Cook, Well-Known Cincinnati Artist, Are on Display

Last Friday marked the opening of the exhibition at the Art building of the works of Daniel Cook, who is a well-known artist of Cincinnati and a member of the faculty of the University of Cincinnati.

The work of Mr. Cook is varied, and includes many processes. Aside from his interest in art, Mr. Cook is also a student of zoology and geology, and his drawing of scientific subjects is considered especially interesting. Much of Mr. Cook's work has been purchased by the College of Engineering of the University of Cincinnati, and these pictures have been loaned to the art department of this university by Dean Snyder, of the College of Engineering of that school.

The display of Mr. Cook's work will be held in the west studio of the art department, and the student body and public are cordially invited to attend. The exhibit will be from 9 o'clock in the morning and from 1 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, with the exception of Saturday and Sunday when the building will be closed.

The art faculty will be glad to answer any questions and to point out items of especial interest. The exhibit will end this week.

Egypt, not sons journeying to the Promised Land.

Third, the power of a dream. In no nation known in history is this last of our three lessons more strikingly shown than in Israel. For thousands of years the Jews have lived separate and apart from all other peoples, oppressed, enslaved, persecuted, and despised, and yet a nation real, vital, and alive—held such by a dream. Someone has said, "The great difference between humans and the rest of animal life is the power to dream," and that which can be dreamed of must be possible and may come true. But to give life it must must be a dream of truth—a great dream. Their dream (Israel's) was of a possible onship of God. It was the dream of the Carpenter Son of Nazareth. He gave it to us, "Ye are the sons of God." What are we doing with our heritage? Are we building a golden calf, looking with longing eyes to the fleshpots of Egypt, or are we bravely facing the burning sands and desert winds, following the cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night, ever marching onward and seeking a kingdom of freedom and death, over the river of death, perchance, but the Promised Land of our dreams.

At Forty

"At Forty" the housewife in some sections of Europe wears a black bonnet to signify the end of her youth. A quaint custom—you say—but it usually signifies a fact. Heavy tasks, indoors and out, have made her old—at forty.

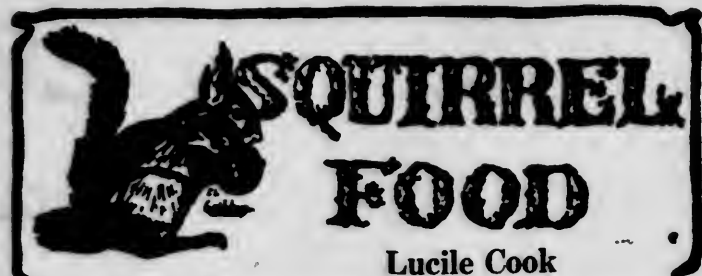

Of all the uses of electricity in America, the most important are those which release the woman from physical drudgery. Electricity carries water, washes clothes, cleans carpets, cooks the family's food—better and quicker than could be done by hand.

A trip to town or an hour's rest in the afternoon pays a woman dividends in good health "at forty years." And what is youth but that?

Men and women who have had the benefit of college training and college life have learned to place the proper value upon rest and recreation. They appreciate the relief afforded by electricity.

THESE WRECKING WEEK-ENDS!

These wrecking week-ends! These ruinous and destructive week-ends! Aand a whole lot more of epithets which I'd like to add but which ye editors say ain't allowed to appear in a nice college paper, the natives of which (the college, not the paper) don't cuss or anything. Anyways, that's the way I feel on Monday mornings when my tongue's hanging out of my mouth from the sprint up the cinder path so's I can say "here" for my first hour class.

Now, you know, if me, Ikkie, what is a dum-dora, feels that way, you can just imagine how Akkie feels. She what us so popular and pretty; that's going to win the beauty contest and get first place in the "Kentucky's Favorites" (that is, if they rated 'em. The real reason being for their not ranking them is because Akkie'd be so much ahead of the others that it would make them feel bad). Really, I ain't found out yet whether, Akkie lives for the week-ends to come or be over with.

I'll just tell you all every little thing she did this past week-end. Well, Friday she went to the Theta Sigma Phi tea and do you know, she was pledged to that organization? I ain't figured out how she got it as she is only a sophomore, and it's a cinch she didn't win the honorary rany; but some one told me that some of the Theta Sigs went up to Akkie and says, "Akkie, we need someone of your calibre in our journalistic sorority." And in the twinkling of an eye, she was took.

That was that! When she had recovered from all the cider which she had drunk at the tea, she went to the pep meeting and somehow or other that beau of hers who believes he's showing a girl a good time when he takes her out and lets her smell the popcorn instead of bighartedly buying her a sack, raked up enough money to take her to the show and pep meeting which the Kentucky theater staged. 'Course, she got in the house promptly at eleven bells.

Saturday was Akkie's big day. For one thing she had a fine swim while watching the Kentucky—V. P. I. boys ski around in the mud. However, that night was her great triumph. Akkie was invited to all the house dances and of course, the faculty insisted that she come to the Halloween party they were giving in the gym and lend it some prestige. The poor child didn't know what to do about the house dances but the A. T. O.'s sez, "Akkie, you must come. Why, you're as welcome as salt to a peanut."

And the Pi Kaps says, "Akkie, you can't afford to miss our dance. You'll rate more than ever if you come to ours."

And the S. A. E.'s sez, "Akkie, violets were made for you" and in addition they sends her a corsage of 'em.

Now, what could the poor lil' girl do when all them frats were so anxious to have her there? Just one thing, she went to them all, and even helped the faculty out with their party, too. And she got the rush of the evening wherever she went. That girl! She's a knockout.

Sunday being the Sabbath, she went to church. That afternoon the regular open house ordeal was endured, and that night another of Akkie's numerous suitors and she sat and twiddled their thumbs. These week-ends!

Professor Grehan (law of press class) "What's your idea on the subject?"

Virginia Boyd—"Oh, it's still the same as yours."

Our idea of a co-ed is one who will miss school on a rainy day because of her terrible cold and then sit out in the rain all afternoon to watch the Wildcats play.

Professor Tuthill tells us that around the thirteenth century universities had their own jails. We wonder if it wouldn't be a good idea for modern universities to follow suit.

Family Pride

"Steve," said the gurgler's wife as he started out on his evening work, "try to be a little more quiet when you come in tonight."

"Soit'nly, kid," replied the fond husband. "Did I wake youse up las' night?"

"No, but you awakened mother."

And I don't want her running up to the penitentiary complaining to father that I married an amateur."

"THE OLD SOAK"

Love, liquor, an "Old Soak," his son, a chorus girl and a musical comedy and a bootlegger are a few of the elements composing "The Old Soak," the picture which will be at the Kentucky Theater today and Saturday.

It is Jean Hersholt's first starring vehicle and he does exceptionally well in the title role. George Lewis, discovered by Edward Sloman in "His People," plays the juvenile lead while June Marlowe plays opposite him.

Edward Sloman directed. The story concerns this family. The son gets into trouble and everyone, despite their personal weaknesses, works to get him out of it. The "Old Soak" shoulders the blame. The story is full of comedy and drama and works out to a forceful climax.

"THE MARRIAGE CLAUSE"

The thrill and lure of life backstage is portrayed in all its realism in "The Marriage Clause," the Universal-Jewel, coming to the Kentucky Theater, beginning Sunday.

It is a story of the career of a famous stage actress, and a charming love affair between her and her director. The principal roles are portrayed by Francis X. Bushman and Billie Dove and in their support will be seen Warner Oland, Grace Darmond, Henri LaGarde, Caroline Snowden, Oscar Smith, Andre Cheron, Robert Dudley, Charles Meakin and others.

STRAND THEATER

Douglas McLean in "Hold That Lion" will be at the Strand Theater for the last time today. A preview of this picture was given last week.

"PEACOCK FEATHERS"

Winning a wife on the strength of a legacy he has just received and then discovering that his inheritance is a neglected ranch of little present value is the fate of the hero in "Peacock Feathers," a Universal-Jewel which will be shown at the Strand Theater Saturday. Cullen Landis and Jacqueline Logan have the leads. The directing was done by Svend Gade. The next episode of "The Fighting Marine" will also be shown.

"TIN GODS"

"Tin Gods." The title's significant for more than one reason. Principally because it figures as a milestone in Thomas Meighan's career.

The picture will have its first showing at the Strand Theater Sunday and continue through Tuesday.

Aiding and abetting him in his efforts, is a huge cast headed by the two featured players, Aileen Pringle and Renee Adoree; William Powell, Hale Hamilton and John Harrington. Allan Dwan directed. William Anthony McGuire is the author of the play from which it was adapted by Paul Dickey and Howard Emmett Rogers.

Kittens To Play Tennessee Rats On Stoll Field Here Tomorrow Afternoon

VISITORS HAVE HAD POOR SEASON FROSH PROFIT BY 9-0 CUB LICKING

Squeals of Rats and meows of Kittens will resound from McLean Stadium tomorrow afternoon when the Kentucky freshmen play the University of Tennessee frosh in a game that promises to be the best yearling struggle of the season. Play will start at 1:30 o'clock.

Like Kentucky, Tennessee has encountered fair success this season, playing two games and losing two, while Kentucky has dropped two and won one. Probably the greatest grid-iron disappointment suffered by Kentucky freshmen this year was the failure to beat the Georgetown frosh and to win the state championship. In Georgetown the young Wildcats had to face football representatives from nearly every state in the South, and every one of these players was good enough to make some all-something while in high school.

However the Kittens have learned a valuable lesson from the Georgetown game. In all the remaining games on the schedule they will be in there fighting every minute and will not allow a motion go to naught. Irvine Jeffries is prepared to circle the ends with the same ease as showed in the Vanderbilt game, and Stone will not be found wanting when the Tennessee backs hit his side of the line. These men and the rest of the team have been going through a steady pace under the watchful eye of Coach Eklund, who is determined to make this a successful freshman football season.

Play the Game Right!

TIPS ON FOOTBALL STRATEGY AND TACTICS

KEEP AFTER THE BALL

(By Edwin Hess, Guard, Ohio State University)

Lots of guards, I've noticed, forget on defense that they're guards and start playing like tackles or defensive halfbacks.

By that I mean that they charge too wide, or run too deep, or fail to follow the ball closely enough. Coach J. W. Wilce, at Ohio State, always teaches his teams to be "ball hawks," and a guard has to keep that in mind every second.

A guard's first job, when the other team has the ball, is to get through the line and reach the ball-carrier in the shortest possible time. I've found the principle of watching the ball, instead of the man I'm playing against, mighty important in the business of breaking through the line. The center, or guard, or tackle opposing me is going to keep his eyes on me, I'm always sure; I simply don't worry about him. What I want to know is where I have to get—what's going to be the most direct way to the ball. I've watched a guard who spent his time with his eyes on the man in front of him, and discovered that he often misses the play.

There are a number of tricks a guard ought to know to help him pass offensive linemen. He can use his hands, on defense, and he must take full advantage of the fact. If the man coming into him is a fast, hard charger, he'll likely do best to pull the man forward—to get his hands on the fellows shoulders, or on his head (for a man always follows his head, and if it's pushed down he's almost sure to go flat) and force him to the ground. If the man is a slow charger, however, the best trick is to push him backward by getting the jump on him, hitting him low and hard and if possible keeping him from getting into full speed.

A quick kind of side-step, when a man is coming at me, has proved very effective. Suppose he's a fast charger, and comes rapidly at me, slightly to my left. I get my hands on his shoulders and head and push him down, at the same time swinging my left leg around and over him. That gets him out of my way and leaves me in a position to block the hole he's been trying to open. The fellow using this trick must be very careful not to let himself be forced to the side—if he does he's leaving a space where a runner can penetrate.

Figure the Play! One of the most important things for a guard to do is this—try to figure the play the other fellow is going to use. A sudden shift of his feet or glance of his eyes, may give away the direction in which the ball is to go. In the Ohio-Columbia game last year, for instance, I could tell nine times out of ten when the Eastern team was to try a buck through center because Schimmetisch, Columbia quarter, always took a position directly back of center. In our game with Michigan it was easy to guess that Friedman was going to pass by the formation his backfield assumed. It goes without saying that a guard can do a lot toward stopping a play when he knows what it's to be, although it would be impossible if he were playing "blind."

Don't get too sure of your play.

the PRESSBOX

The spirit's the thing and tomorrow's the day.

So far as the Wildcats of the University of Kentucky are concerned their 1926 season will open tomorrow and close the same day—and we ask you, why shouldn't it? Perfectly logical, in view of the fact that the band, team and six or seven dozen student hyenas will be right there when the first gun goes off.

Not many people around town have taken this said game with this Thin Red Line (wotta lie!) any too seriously and that's just the reason I think Kentucky is going to win. Now there you are. You know just where I stand and you need not read the rest of the kolumn—unless of course you want to find how many boners I pull in popping off with all my ecstasy about this Wildcat team I've been outing since way back in August—not in The Kernel of course.

But getting back to Alabama, Mr. Wallace Wade has a fine football team in Tuscaloosa—and so has Mr. Fred Murphy a good football team up in Kentucky, despite the fact that there are quite a few, to hear them talk should be coaches of Harvard or Notre Dame, who disagree with me.

I want to state right here that Alabama won't be so darn hard to crack as Virginia Poly with Mr. Taylor out of the backfield for good and Mr. "Red" Barnes, otherwise "Terrior," unable to play a full game against Kentucky. Last Saturday this great end, Winslett, was in the backfield calling signals and when it comes down to this, Mr. Wade must be pretty hard up for a quarterback for the way we understand it, Mr. Winslett can get down the field much quicker from an end position than he can from a position back of the forward wall. We hear also that Winslett is not so good on the defense and that should be a help to Kentucky in her dashes around his end.

It seems that in their game with

PRINCETON FIVE TO APPEAR HERE IN FIRST GAME ON DECEMBER 31

The problem of finding a good center will probably be the greatest task confronting Coach Ray Eklund when he issues the first call for basketball practice shortly after Thanksgiving.

With Captain Paul Jenkins at running guard and Mohny at one of the forward positions as a working basis, the coach is optimistic over the prospects for a better team than last year. A back guard to replace Mike Carey will also have to be found. Frank Smith, who was a crack guard in high school but who has never been out for the team in college is threatening to enter the race for this position.

Ropke, Ellis and Frank Phipps, who were not eligible last year, will be out fighting for places on the team as will several members of last year's Kitten squad, among them Knadler, Gilb, Tom Phipps, Heizer and McGinnis.

The first game on the schedule so far is Princeton here on December 31, but it is likely that a game with Cincinnati will be arranged for about December 20.

Indiana will come here early in the season for a game and the 'Cats will be out for revenge for the defeat handed them in football at Bloomington a month ago.

Though no official schedule has been given out it is understood that games with Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Georgia, Washington and Lee and Georgia Tech have been contracted for.

The frosh team this year should be a whiz with such high school material to choose from as Jeffries, of Manual; "Spooks" Milward and Len Miller, from Senior High; Freddie McLane, of Newport; Lyons and R. Rodemeyer, of Ashland, and Don Williams, who played on the champion Champaigne, Ill., team for two years.

No schedule of freshman games has been given out but games with Georgetown, Centre and other nearby colleges will be played.

CATS CONFIDENT OF TIDE VICTORY

'Bama's Wins Greatly Overbalance Kentucky's But Blue Team Hopes To Upset
Dope in South

TIDE DEFEATED IN 1922

Southern football fans will soon have their predictions about a certain affair that will take place in Birmingham Saturday, November 6, either verified or disaffirmed. Whether the followers of the Kentucky Wildcats or the Southerners who are lulled to peaceful rest by the murmurings of the victories of the Tide are to be correct in their prophecies remains to be seen.

Alabama, leading the Conference with five victories and no defeats registered against them, is more or less a favorite, but favorites in more than one branch of sport have been known to lose to supposedly weaker opponents.

'Bama's victories over Kentucky somewhat overbalance the number of games taken from the Wademen by Kentucky. In 1922 the first game between the two schools in several years resulted in a 6 to 0 victory for the Cats causing the dope bucket below the Mason-Dixon line to tip considerably. In '23 the Tide ceased to ebb and Kentucky was sent back from Tuscaloosa holding the short end of a 16 to 8 score. The following year Alabama, stronger than ever, defeated Kentucky 42 to 7 while 31 to 0 was the outcome of the 1925 contest.

The team, the student body and several thousand supporters of the Murphysmen feel more confident as to the result of the battle than they have in several years and it is the current belief that Saturday victory will go to State.

WILDCATS TIE WITH GOBBLER OUTFIT, 13 ALL

WERT'S ALERTNESS, FINE PLAY BY SMITH ARE DECIDING FACTORS

(By JOHN W. DUNDON, Jr.)

Kentucky's Wildcat football team fought and slashed its way to a 13-13 tie with the representatives of V. P. I. commonly known as the Gobblers, on Stoll field last Saturday afternoon. The game was played in a drizzling rain, which continued to a greater or lesser degree throughout the contest. Despite the adverse weather conditions, 5,000 loyal Blue and White rooters populated the stands, and cheered the Kentucky boys as much as vocal power allowed them. V. P. I. had one of the best teams ever seen in action on Stoll field. The rain not only bothered the spectators, but probably caused the Gobblers to fumble the slippery pigskin no less than eight times, two of which led either directly or indirectly to Wildcat scores. Kentucky's snappy band was present, having donned their new uniforms for the first time, and they certainly put forth a striking appearance.

V. P. I. Fumble Is Costly

U. of K.'s first points came as a result of a fumble in the first quarter of the game. Peake, Poly half, fumbled on his 15 yard line, and Wert, ever alert Wildcat forward, pounced upon the ball and slid across the goal line. A few moments later Wert placed-kicked the extra point. Again in the last quarter, when V. P. I. had a seemingly safe 13-7 lead, Peake again fumbled and Kentucky recovered on the Gobbler 40 yard line. Three plays by Jenkins, Ross and Portwood brought a first down. At this point Mohny was substituted for Portwood. Naturally V. P. I. expected a pass, and while their defense was intently watching Mohny, Captain Smith tucked the ball in his arms, and smashed his way through tackle, evaded the safety man and took the ball the remaining distance to a touchdown and a tie score. With the whole crowd holding its breath, so to speak, Wert made ready to place kick. However, fate was against the Blue, and the pass from center skidded along the ground, the try for goal failing.

The game ended a few seconds later. It is said that V. P. I. has one of the best teams in the Southern Conference, even stronger than the famed Alabama eleven. During the second quarter, and partly during the second half of the contest, the Gobblers clearly outplayed the Wildcats. They gained ground consistently, making 25 yards from scrimmage to Kentucky's 140. They chalked up 10 first downs to the Blue's seven. Very little aerial work was attempted, and none of the passes tried were completed. The game was very well played, as neither team drew over 15 yards in penalties. In the second period V. P. I. took the ball straight down the field for a touchdown. Looney scoring. McArthur kicked goal. Again, at the start of the second half, V. P. I. gained through the line and skirted the ends for a marker. Peake scoring on an end run. A. Portwood blocked McArthur's try for goal kick.

And Another Fumble

To start the game, Ross kicked off to McArthur, who returned to his 40 yard line. Schulte recovered a fumble, and an exchange of punts and a 15 yard penalty on the Wildcats gave V. P. I. quite an advantage. V. P. I. was held and punted to Kentucky's 25 yard line. Ellis fumbled and Bailey recovered. Looney likewise committed an error and Ellis recovered. Smith punted and Peake's 20 yard off tackle thrust featured a Gobbler drive. An exchange of punts found V. P. I. to a great disadvantage, and it was at this point that Peake fumbled and Wert scored the Wildcat's first marker. Ross kicked off again. Schulte recovered Peake's fumble as the quarter ended. However, they lost the ball to V. P. I. as the second quarter started, on downs. Peake and Esleeck took the ball down the field with some remarkable runs to the Blue 35 yard stripe. Peake broke away for a long run, being nailed on the one yard line. Looney plunged over and McArthur kicked off for Kentucky. After several line plays, Smith punted. Plunges by Mattox and Peake netted 12 yards and a first down. Peake and Mattox advanced the ball near the Blue goal, but fumbled on the Blue ten yard line. Wert recovered and Smith punted out of danger as the half ended.

Peake Makes Touchdown

Esleeck ran back Ross' kickoff to his 45 yard line to begin the second half. Tech gained on an exchange of punts. Esleeck took one of Smith's kicks and ran to the 33 yard line before he was stopped. Peake made it first down, and Looney skirted end to place the oval on Kentucky's 11 yard line. Looney made a gain, and Peake skirted end for a touchdown. McArthur's try for goal was blocked. On the following plays, neither team gained consistently. Once Jenkins took the ball around end for an eight yard gain when he found no receivers open for a pass. Kentucky had the ball on V. P. I.'s 30 yard line as the quarter ended. They were held here and on the exchange of punts Peake fumbled, Wert and Portwood recovering. Here the fun began for the Wildcats, terminating in Captain Smith's touchdown, as has been described before.

V. P. I. had a great combination. There is no way of knowing what would have happened on a dry field but it is almost a certainty that the game would not have ended a tie. Kentucky considered V. P. I. her hardest opponent. With this game safely out of the way, preparations are being made for Alabama. The band is going along, and everything points toward a great day for the Blue and White.

the Louisiana State University eleven last Saturday, the Wademen brought a pocket of horseshoes into the fray with them and threw one out onto the ground when the wanted six or seven points. The first half ended 3 to 0 in favor of 'Bama, but here comes a boy by the name of Prichard, who by the way defeated Sewanee by blocking a kick for a safety and a 2 to 0 victory, and blocks two punts in succession and runs for touchdowns after each one. And then one of the lesser lights gets away for a long run for the other touchdown and away goes victory hopes for L. S. U.

Along with this little info there was also passed along the secret that L. S. U. blocked a punt and instead of running down through an open field for a touchdown, which at that time would have made the score 6 to 3 in their favor, the alert "U" man comes along and falls on the ball and allows two other mates to pile on top of him. Of course such a trick can be termed nothing but dumbness on the part of these fellows. A touchdown right here might have been the turning point of the game, but it wasn't made and that's that.

We notice that the Orange and White, student publication of the University of Tennessee, carries a story concerning basketball practice at U. T. We would infer from this that they're out to cut a wide swath in Southern Conference circles this year. About 25 men reported for the first workout. Prospects for the team are good, the story says, five letter men returning from last season. Among these are Cooley, Butcher, Mc-

Keen, Barnhill and Dodson. Six normal men from the Rat outfit of last season are out and promise to make the competition for regular berths keen.

The Gobbler game last Saturday was just another one of those affairs in which poor football on the part of the visitors causes us to say that neither team outplayed the other. Despite the fact that V. P. I. scored a good many more yards than Kentucky, their eight fumbles did no look so good, and this goes a long way towards determining the relative strengths of two football teams. I took brilliant playing by a heads-up football team to come from behind and tie the visitors and that's what the 'Cats did. The Gobblers said themselves they were glad to tie Kentucky and the 'Cats said the same thing about V. P. I. And they were about right.

The Kentucky freshmen will try to redeem themselves by defeating the University of Tennessee Rats on Stoll field tomorrow afternoon. Unless a great change has come over the Rat squad, it seems very probable that a rather uninteresting game as far as Tennessee is concerned will result. The Rats, from all confounded reports, are not as strong as in previous years, having lost their first two games of the season by decisive margins, one to the Knox County High school eleven and another to the Chattanooga frosh (whoever they are). It's up to the Kentucky freshmen. If they win Saturday all right, but if not we see little hope for them.

Centre College left for a Michigan laughter house last night. The Colnells will meet the Michigan Aggies on the Aggie field tomorrow afternoon and we see no reason why Centre shouldn't lose another game. As for Georgetown, Maryville should be too hard a nut to crack for the undefeated Tigers. Ogden College mixes it with Transylvania and the former should be defeated. Coach Elam's team is improving with each game as was shown by their 18 to 0 defeat at the hands of the strong Georgetown team.

It is indeed gratifying to see a better relationship existing between the University of Kentucky and Transylvania. The Crimson Rambler has been making it a habit of publishing the Wildcat schedule, while the freshmen teams of the two schools have already engaged in a friendly scrimmage—for practice of course.

1927 KENTUCKIAN BEAUTY SELECTIONS ANNOUNCED

for Arts and Sciences student. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority. Miss Ragenstein is well known on the campus as a member of the State Press Association, the Kentucky Kernel staff, Women's Pan-Hellenic council, vice-president of the English club. Miss Alma Cavood is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, a transfer from Converse College, Spartansburg, North Carolina where she was the most beautiful girl at Converse last year she was chosen Miss Queen. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority.

Miss Helen Board is a junior in the department of home economics in the College of Agriculture. Miss Board was one of the five university beauties chosen by Flo Ziegler for the 1926 Kentucky. She is sponsor for company C of the R.O.T.C. and is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Held Says, "All Are Worthy of Honor" Following is the letter received by the editor of the Kentucky Kernel from Mr. Held: "I have chosen these six girls for your book and it was most difficult as they are all worthy of the honor. Any or all of the contestants can come up and pose for me for the rest of their lives and mine. Sincerely yours, John Held, Jr."

Mr. Held judged the beauties for the University of Texas two years ago when their book won second place in the national contest for college annuals which was conducted by the Art Crafts Guild of America. He has placed the Kentuckian staff under even greater obligation to him by drawing for them one of his own inimitable collegiate sketches to be used as an insert page preceding the beauty section in this year's annual. The group of photographs submitted to Mr. Held have been returned to the staff and may be had at the Kentuckian office if any of the contestants desire them.

CROSS-COUNTRY SPORT IS REVIVED AT U. OF K.

first to report for the varsity team. Many others have secured uniforms from Trainer Mann this week. Fields, Rhodemeyer and Cochran are among those out for the freshman team.

Two cross-country meets will be run with Berea, the first being one week after the intra-mural meet on November 14. Also, Coach Eklund, who is interested in the team, is trying to secure several meets for the fresh team, an aggregation which is deemed superior to the varsity by virtue of the ability of Fields and Rhodemeyer, two men who have run with Cincinnati athletic clubs. The team may be sent to the Y. M. C. A. meet at Louisville Thanksgiving. Centre College has already announced the entrance of a team and may compete against State.

WILDCATS WILL FACE CRIMSON TIDE SATURDAY

Jenkins, the phantom passer, who was hurt during the last quarter of the V. P. I. game, is in the best of condition for the fray and will be ready to heave the pigskin with his old time accuracy.

Word coming from the 'Bama camp says that the Wildcats have already thrown a scare into Wallace Wade's aggregation and the southerners have lost no time in getting in trim for the main attraction of the South. Last year Kentucky fell midst the waves of the Tide by the count of 31 to 0 and the year before went down by the heavy figure of 42 to 7.

Alabama Leads Race Alabama, leading the conference standing with five victories and no defeats, looms as a favorite over the Big Blue, but with Kentucky holding a victory over Florida, a tie with V. P. I. and a close score against Washington and Lee, an outright victory for the 'Bama eleven is not so certain.

The Wildcats will go up against a team that will attempt about as many passes as Coach Murphy's men have been doing all season. Alabama's star tackle, Pickhard, will have to be watched mighty close, as this six-footer has consistently broken through the first line defense all season to block punts and tackle his opponents for losses. Winslett, star end, Captain Barnes and Brown, of the backfield, will form part of the combination to oppose the Kentuckians.

The team, 25 strong, with Coach Fred J. Murphy, Trainer Frank Mann and Student Manager Fred Conn, left last night over the Southern railroad and were to arrive in Birmingham this morning at 9:20 o'clock. A light workout was on the menu for the Blue and White this afternoon on the old Birmingham Southern baseball field.

UNIVERSITY OFFERS SEVERAL NEW AWARDS

The Bennett prize is a prize of $20.00 offered annually for the best essay on "The Development of Popular Government."

To the student who makes the highest scholastic standing in the Engineering College during his freshman and sophomore years the Tau Beta Pi Association offers a prize of $100. This prize is not awarded until the winner graduates, although the winner is announced at the beginning of the junior year. Major E. B. Ellis, of Lexington, who died in May, 1923, made this prize possible.

The Kernel is offering a loving cup to the senior who attains the highest grade in any department during the four years work. This prize is being offered for the first time this year.

Aside from the prizes offered to individual students, the Y. M. C. A. awards each year a cup to the fraternity that makes the highest scholastic standing, according to a system worked out by the dean of men. This cup is awarded for one semester and the fraternity that wins it the first five semesters or three consecutive semesters gets to keep it permanently.

MANY ALUMNI EXPECTED HERE FOR HOMECOMING

All alumni, faculty members, and students, are invited to attend the annual dinner given by the College of Law at the Phoenix hotel. Dean Turck announces that Dr. Frank L. McVey will be the only speaker, and that his welcome will be brief. The time is to be devoted to the renewing of old friendships rather than a formal program. After the dinner both alumni and students will go to the game at Stoll Field.

Arrangements for the dance are in the hands of Miss Marguerite McLaughlin and her committee from the Lexington Alumni club. One of the best orchestras in this section of the country will furnish the music.

Dr. John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, who coached the Wildcats in 1916 when they beat Centre 68 to 0, will be one of the honored guests, and it is expected that he will be one of the most interested spectators at the game.

Several hundred noted educators from all parts of the state are also expected for the annual Educational Conference, which will be held November 19 and 20, at the University of Kentucky.

"WILDCAT SPECIAL" TO MAKE KNOXVILLE TRIP

be $3.75 and the upper berth will be $3.00. From present indications there will be six sleepers but as many more sleepers will be open for occupancy at any time to accommodate the crowd. The sleepers will be open for occupancy at 1 o'clock, Wednesday night. The railroad has requested that persons going on the trip, apply for their reservations as soon as possible, so that it may know approximately how many to arrange for.

It is expected that there will be a large delegation of the business men from Lexington besides those who will go from the University, to boost the team to victory.

Every year that the "Wildcats" have played the "Vols" at Tennessee, they have been royally entertained by the people of Knoxville. Again the team will be entertained by the "Vols" at dinner at Whittle Springs Thursday, November 25 and following that by a dance in the evening.

Miss Margie McLaughlin has been recommended by the athletic council to be chaperone for the girls attending the Tennessee game and has been accepted for the "job" by students and others concerned.

laboratory at the College of Engineering here. Some of these appliances have already arrived and they will be used for study by the students in their course of heating and ventilating engineering. The new thermal laboratory is located in the building formerly occupied by the automotive department of the college.

Dean Anderson spent two weeks in the east and before going to New York spent several days in Philadelphia, where he visited the machinery exhibit at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition and addressed the Philadelphia Engineering society.

ARRIVAL OF BEAUTY CHOICES SAVES EDITOR

the beauty contest was a little farther down the calendar. And the college student can't talk—unless you involve him in an argument. And an argument isn't an argument unless you have eyes and nays and pros and cons. Before the decision was given the talk was all conjecture, who had the best chance, the "sure fire" winners, etc. Now all the wailing and groaning is on the part of those who find themselves ineligible to the ranks of national beauty contestants because their ideals and standards of said commodity do not conform to those of this judge whose word is not the ten commandments of the artistic world.

The Kernel writer who got the story, having given the password—which we are not at liberty to divulge—found the editor barricaded behind locked doors in her tower room, gloomily contemplating a bottle of something or other. "I don't want to die permanently," she wailed, "I'd try dope only I hate green dragons, and snakes absolutely petrify me!"

The stag at eve

THIS fellow missed out on a heavy date tonight by the close margin of one phone-call. But don't waste pity on him. He has his jimmy-pipe and a tidy red tin of Prince Albert . . . grand little pals in time of stress.

When that cool, comforting smoke comes curling up the pipe-stem, troubles evanesce with every puff. For P. A. is The National Joy Smoke in fact as well as phrase. Cool as a money-lender. Sweet as a check from home. Fragrant as a pine-grove on a damp morning.

You'll like Prince Albert better than any other tobacco you ever packed into a pipe. You'll like the friendly way it treats your tongue and throat. You'll like the way it helps you over the rough spots. Buy a tidy red tin today and see!

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tins, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

YES!

The answer a Braeburn always receives.

The cut is convincingly collegiate. The fabrics are certainly collegiate.

And a quick yes arrives when the price is quoted.
